What can I solve for you?

With experience in a range of transactions, I advise school districts and public agencies on a variety of matters related to real estate, business, and facilities.

What's it like to work with me?

Working collaboratively, I pride myself on taking an analytical and practical approach in my review and handling of client contracts and questions. Looking beyond the theoretical issues at hand, I deliver advice crafted to advance client goals.

Overview

Drawing on experience advising clients in a broad range of transactions, Andrew McCraven represents school districts, community colleges, and other public agencies in a broad range of business and facilities related matters with a focus on negotiating and coordinating real property acquisitions and sales and leasing transactions. Further, Andrew has extensive experience drafting and negotiating all types of contracts, including technology transactions, equipment leases, and independent contractor agreements.

As an experienced transactional real estate attorney, Andrew manages transactions through all stages of the deal process from initial diligence through closing. He ensures effective communication among all parties to meet closing deadlines promptly.

As an outside general counsel, Andrew advises clients on a range of matters to meet their needs and goals. He delivers effective responses to unique client questions and requests, leads the negotiation of complex agreements, and advises on novel issues. He also advises clients on risk management and compliance issues, taking into account client policies, concerns, and goals.

After School

I enjoy learning more about the world and the people around me. I particularly enjoy traveling to unique places and spent a semester of college studying on Semester-at-Sea. Closer to home, I spend my time watching USC football games with friends, making trips to theme parks with family, and reading science fiction.
